The Stages South of Alexandria.

ON the first of October next the Mail
Stage will commence running as follows between Alexandria and Petersburg in Virginia:

Will leave Alexandria every day at 6 o'clock in the evening, and arrive at Dumfries by 5 in the morning—Leave Dumfries at 6 and arrive at Fredericksburg by 11 1-2 in the morning—Leave Fredericksburg at 12 (noon) and arrive at Richmond the next morning by 6—Leave Richmond at 6 1-2 and arrive at Petersburg by 11 1-2 in the morning.

Returning, will leave Petersburg every day at 12 1-2 P. M. and arrive at Alexandria in the same time. This stage will carry no more than 2 passengers on any account whatever, and not more than 14 lb. of baggage can be allowed to each passenger.

An Accommodation Stage between Alexandria and Petersburg will also commence running at the same time, every other day throughout the year, without regard to Sundays, and will travel only in the day time.—
On this line it is the intention of the owners to study the wishes and the convenience of passengers. Still, however, regard must be had to time—Going south from Alexandria they will breakfast at Occoquan, dine at Stafford Court-House, and lodge at Fredericksburg—The next day will breakfast at the Bowling Green, dine at the Oaks, and lodge at Richmond. And on the third day will breakfast at the Half-Way house and dine at Petersburg.

Returning, will dine at the Half-Way house and lodge at Richmond. Early in the morning, breakfast at the Oaks, dine at the Bowling Green, and lodge at Fredericksburg. Next morning, will breakfast at Stafford court house, dine at Occoquan, and lodge at Alexandria.

The owners on this line too, have to request that passengers will be as moderate as possible in the quantity of their baggage, as any thing more than a small trunk or parcel which will go within the body of the stage will be an extra charge.

FOREIGN.

(VIA NEW-YORK.)

LONDON, August 11.

A Pappenburgh vessel is arrived from Bordeaux, after a short passage. The captain states, that an order had been given for the return of all American vessels which had dropt down the river, and a renewal of the embargo.

It is very generally stated, that some of the families of the ancient nobles of France had been discovered in attempting to disseminate Spanish patriotism among the people of France, and that their example had been enthusiastically embraced by the people, whose ardor would not easily be checked.

At a dinner given by Mr. Ware to the Spanish deputies, lord Erskine, who was present, commented very severely on the toast lately received with such disapprobation at a public meeting. "I dislike as much as any one," said the noble lord, "many of the measures that have been pursued by this country towards America; but I would never propose, in Champaign or Burgundy, to drink the health of that man who refused our brave tars a drop of water!"

We are assured that his Westphalian majesty, otherwise Jerome Bonaparte, has lately sent a letter, sealed with his royal arms, to the lady whom he married some years ago in America. It was addressed to her as "Miss Patterson," and was accompanied with several presents of considerable value. In his letter he acquainted her, that his imperial brother, Napoleon, having called him to give his hand to a princess of the German empire, she must no longer consider him in any other light than as a sovereign, unconnected with her by former ties. This youngest representative of the family destined by Providence to reign over Europe, may possibly, like his brother Joseph, find himself ere long in a situation to induce Miss Patterson, rather to congratulate herself, than to regret, that she has not been made queen of Westphalia.

SPANISH PAPERS.

CORRENA GAZETTE EXTRAORDINARY AUG. 1.

[By order of the government.]

NOTE OF THE SUPREME JUNTA.

SEVILLE, July 20.

The Supreme Junta has the most entire satisfaction to inform the public, that by a dispatch received this day, by express from the most excellent seignor don Francisco Xavier Castanos, captain general of the forces of Andalusia, of which a literal extract is hereunto annexed, a most convincing proof is given of the military talents with which the operations have been conducted, inasmuch as the results exactly correspond with the well digested plan which had been formed. So fortunate have they been, that from the very first encounter, the enemy has continued to fly with the utmost disgrace, and his flight has been a complete rout; this effect having been produced by events which he certainly could not have prevented.

"MOST SERENE SEIGNIORS,

"In my dispatch of the 17th, I acquainted you with the state of our operations and proceedings. On the 13th, gen. Reding wrote to inform me, that at nine in the morning he entered Baylen with his own division and that of the marquis de Compeigne, which I had ordered to join him; and that the enemy were retreating from that place to Guarraman, having left behind only a grand guard, which was put to the rout. I instantly wrote to Reding to attack Andujar, in flank, with the two divisions, whilst I should attack it in front. I was prepared to execute my plan at day break this morning, when, at two o'clock, I was apprised that the enemy were evacuating Andujar, and making a precipitate flight by the road to Madrid. I cannot conceal my surprise, that the inhabitants of Andujar did not give me the slightest notice of this movement.

"Finding that the enemy were making their escape from me, I ordered La Pena, with his division, and some reinforcements, to harass their rear; a disposition so much the more proper, as I had just received a letter from general Reding, informing me that he had marched from Baylen at three in the morning, with the intention of making his attack upon Andujar at eleven; so that in consequence of his active and opportune movements, Dupont will find himself placed between these two divisions and that of gen. La Pena. I flatter myself that the result will correspond with the well combined dispositions of the plan.

"Your highness may hourly expect intelligence of the intended attack of to-day, for which every thing is prepared.

"I occupy this city with the division of general Jones, where I have taken a position adapted to circumstances. The enemy have left 300 sick; and it is believed that general Vedel was killed in the affair of Mongibar.

"I have also received advice from commandant Cruz, that he had proceeded with his sharpshooters to Los Banos, in order to cover the movements of the respective divisions; and, if colonel Baldeanos has followed my instructions to him, a most favorable opportunity will occur of occupying Despenaperros; since, in a dispatch which we have intercepted, dated the 16th, from the chief of the staff of the French army at Baylen, to the commandant of Santa Elena, the latter is directed to march to Guarraman, leaving only five hundred men at that point.

"May God preserve your most serene highness many years.

"Head quarters at Andujar, 8 o'clock in the morning, July 19, 1808.

"The most serene seig. Xavier de Castanos."

"The most serene seig. the President and Members of the Supreme Junta of Government."

By the same courier extraordinary has been received a dispatch from the most excellent seignor count de Tili, a member of the Supreme Junta, which, in addition to the communication from his excellency the General in Chief, mentions the deplorable situation to which the enemy has reduced the town of Andujar. It is undoubtedly a matter of surprise, however well practised these banditti are in the art of corruption, that there should be room to suspect any of the inhabitants of that place of disloyalty, or adhering to the enemy. But should these suspicions be confirmed, they may well tremble at the example which this Supreme Authority is preparing, in order to satisfy the public, and to prevent similar proceedings in other places which may have the misfortune to fall into the enemy's hands. This dispatch also contains the inventories of two magazines which the French left behind them at Andujar; but as it likewise mentions a third which there had not been time to examine, and as we are in expectation of the still more fortunate results of a decisive action, the whole of the requisite details will be subsequently communicated.

JUAN BAUTISTA PARDO,

Secretary.

LONDON, August 12.

DUTCH PAPERS.

Dutch Journals to the 5th instant containing Paris news to the 30th ultimo. Bonaparte arrived at Panton on the 21st ultimo, and left that town the next morning, and was to be at Toulouse on Sunday, the 24th: he was thence to proceed to Agen, which he was to leave on the 29th, for the purpose of visiting Bordeaux, where he was expected on the 30th. Such is the rout mentioned in these papers.—Where he was to go from Bordeaux is not stated, but according to some accounts, he is expected at Rambaillet on the 14th instant, his birth-day, for the celebration of which splendid preparations had been made.

It is stated in an article from Hamburg, of the 29th ultimo, in the Rotterdam Courant of the 4th instant, that intelligence had been received at Copenhagen of the capture of the Swedish army in Finland, consisting of 12,000 men. This is evidently an unfounded rumor. The Gottenburg mail furnished the means of detection. By it we learnt that his Swedish majesty established his head quarters at Great Carleby on the 24th ultimo, one day later than the report.

The Spanish troops in the vicinity of Hamburg have taken the oath of fidelity to their new sovereign JOSEPH NAPOLEON.—This need excite no surprise. They could be only imperfectly informed of recent events in their own country; and, besides, they had the bayonets of the French at their breasts. These papers maintain their usual silence with respect to Spain.

Private letters from Holland state that strong symptoms of revolt against France have lately manifested themselves in several districts of Germany, and also in Poland. At Dantzic, the people are said to have suddenly risen upon the French soldiery, and put numbers of them to death. The final result of this insurrection is not mentioned. Dantzic is known to be very strongly garrisoned, and therefore the conspiracy must be formidable, or the irritation extreme, that could prompt the inhabitants to insurrection.

FRANCE AND AUSTRIA.

Dispatches were yesterday received from sir James Saumarez, in the Baltic. Report says, they announce the commencement of hostilities between the Austrians & French. Whether this be any part of the contents of the dispatches we know not; but a letter from an officer in the Baltic states, that sir James, while cruising off Stralsund on the 29th ultimo, was informed that hostilities had actually commenced, a battle having been fought in Galicia, in which the French were entirely defeated.

The loss of the French is stated at 12000 men, and the statement is said to have been confirmed by several vessels from Pillau.—We state these rumors; but though we consider hostilities at no great distance between those two powers, we doubt much whether they have commenced.

NEW-YORK, October 8.

Latest News from London.

The ship Flora, from London, came up yesterday morning. She left Falmouth on the 24th of August. A commercial friend has favored the editor of the Mercantile Advertiser with a file of the Courier, to the 19th, from which the subjoined articles are copied.

LONDON, August 15.

Dispatches have been received from lord Collingwood, which contain an official account of the surrender of general Dupont. It appears that the French had 3000 men killed in the battle of Baylen, which took place the day previous to the surrender.—Gen. Castanos was advancing with his army towards Madrid.

By private advices from Holland, down to the 10th inst. it appears that the Dutch view with great apprehension the expected rupture between the Austrian emperor and Bonaparte, as they suppose that the latter will enforce a conscription for his armies in that country. All these advices concur in stating, that the utmost activity prevails in the Austrian dominions, and that the army is, as we before stated on the best authority, on an excellent footing. The archduke Louis, who is inspector of the frontiers, has recently visited the whole of these frontiers, accompanied by engineers and other officers of known experience. It is strongly reported that these movements of the court of Vienna are entirely in conjunction with those of the Russian cabinet.—As proof that the Corsican despot views these movements with an eye of jealousy, it is said, that the old expedients of interception and murder have been put in force by the French government, and that a Russian courier who was sent from France Woronsky, at Paris to St. Petersburg, with dispatches, was way laid in the department of La Muerte, and assassinated. The dispatches were of course secured by the French ruffians. A similar attempt was made to intercept an Austrian messenger, from Vienna to Baron Vincent, but this messenger fortunately escaped, though not without being severely wounded.

August 16.

A mail from Gottenburg arrived this morning. So far from Buxhowden having beat the Swedes, it is reported that the latter with an inferior force have gained a victory over the former.

Extract of a letter from Stockholm, dated 30th July, 1808.

"There is a report here that the Swedes under Klingspor have defeated the Russians near Lupo; between the 18th and 19th inst. The Swedes were only 3300 strong, and the Russians 6000. The Swedes lost in killed upwards of twenty officers. It is said to have been a bloody affair. Klingspor could not avoid giving battle for fear of being cut off."

His Royal Majesty's Yacht Anadis at anchor off Castleholm, July 21.

His royal majesty went on shore at three o'clock in the afternoon, to review, near Pavisund, a strong battalion of Finnish reserve, which was on its march to join the army; and near Godby, a body of the royal grand militia with a corps of about 1000 volunteers destined to reinforce the Finnish army. His majesty expressed to them his approbation of their loyal and faithful conduct, and desired them to persevere in it until the war should have been brought to a successful issue.

(Stockholm Gaz. July 25.)

Bonaparte was expected at Paris last Sunday. He once stated in one of his Bulletins or addresses to the Senate after the battle of Austerlitz, that had he been defeated by the Austrians he would have made a public entry into Paris, on purpose to attract to him, which was not to be shaken by any disasters he might meet with. As he defeated in Spain, he has now an opportunity of resorting to that expedient to prove the love of his people. But we shall not doubt find him as usual entering his good city of Paris unexpectedly; either in the middle of the night or at the dawn of day when the Parisians are enjoying in all a few hours, forgetfulness of him and his tyranny. If war with Austria be the point of taking place, we shall find him evoking an extraordinary meeting of the Senate, thundering out some Senatus Consultum, repeating his old battered charges against the English as the disturbers of the continent, promising our subjugation if the great nation will put forth all her strength and finishing by calling out the conscription of the year 1810!

Military stores are now embarking with great activity in the River; twenty sail of vessels are now busily occupied with taking in 3,100 tons of ordnance at Woolwich.

Colonel Fitzgerald has been returned Member of Parliament for the county of Clare. On the 10th day captain O'Byrne declined any further contest. The numbers at the close of the 9th day were—for colonel Fitzgerald, 1343—capt. O'Byrne, 1024.

Another expedition is about to sail from Cork. The following information respecting it is from the Cork paper of the 10th inst.

CORK, August 10.

Lieut. General Sir David Baird and his gader General Sinde, are expected in town to join the expedition prepared to sail from Cove.

BOSTON, Oct. 4.

Arrived ship United States, Harding, Cadiz 40 days. The United States was originally from Norfolk, and was taken and carried into Algeiras, by a French privateer, and detained six months; but released by the Patriots. The other American vessels, (14 in number) having been detained by Spanish privateers, were not released when capt. H. sailed—six of the captives were at Seville, and were promised by the Supreme Junta they should be immediately liberated. Capt. H. has no information of any vessels in the Mediterranean, except Algeiras and Cadiz. The brig Drammond, Butler, of Philadelphia, arrived on the 18th August, from London, and sailed again 23d for the Mediterranean. Sept. 6, close in with St. Michaels, was boarded from the British frigate Eugenia, from England for a convoy off Lisbon.—informed that she did not enter the Tagus, and was only off there one day. Captain went ashore at St. Michaels same day, and found no American vessels there. Sept. 10, in lat. 37 5, long. 33 45, was boarded from the British frigate Cleopatra, of 32 guns, capt. Simpson, cruising in company with the Swinburn, of 74 guns, vice admiral sir J. B. Warren, capt. John Conn.—informed they had no news. Sept. 17, in lat. 39 42, long. 46 35, was boarded from his B. M. brig Hunter, of 18 guns, captain Rogers, with 40 sail of merchantmen under convoy, 48 days from Jamaica for England, and treated politely.

Also brig Almira, Obeur, from Stavanger, and 57 days from Bergen, (Norway) Left, August 7, brig Grand Turk, Staples, of Rhode Island, had been detained five months by a Danish privateer, and under adjudication. The ship Adamant, Stove, of New York, from Batavia bound up the Baltic, with a very valuable cargo of coffee, cochineal, camphor, sugars, &c. was at Christiansand; where she put in last January, fearful of being captured by the English—the property was supposed to be Danish. Spoke, August 23, in lat. 53 3, long. 24, w. an English brig four weeks from Charleston for Mayport—who informed the embargo in America was taken off a few days before she sailed!! Capt. Obeur reports nothing new—no news of the revolution in Spain, received when he sailed.

TURNPIKE ROADS.—We have the pleasure of mentioning that the undertaker has completed his contract with the Washington and Alexandria Turnpike Company, in making a paved road from the alms house to the entrance of the bridge across Potomac river, and we are persuaded it will bear a comparison, in neatness and construction, with any paved road in the United States: the magnitude of the work reflects considerable credit on the undertaker, in its being completed in so short a space of time. This road will render the distance from Alexandria to the capitol a little over six miles, and in travelling it affords an interesting view of Alexandria, the Navy Yard at the Eastern Branch, the City and Georgetown, nearly the whole distance; and as this is the first commencement of a turnpike road from the great capital of the U. States, it ought to excite to the particular interest and attention of congress, because in making turnpike roads there are many difficulties to encounter, for men being too much the creatures of habit, when their habits as well as interests are combined, it renders it almost impossible to separate them; thus those who are interested in some favorite route of an old road, will oppose, in every shape, a change, however much it may contribute to public accommodation and convenience; but the different parts of the District of Columbia hereafter become bound together by easy access, by turnpike roads and reciprocal interests; and thereby exhibit to the U. States, at large, the advantage of effecting the same object, by a sense of mutual interest, arising from easy modes of mutual intercourse and mingled commerce: it has long been an interesting subject of contemplation by the general government, the commencement of a turnpike road through the continent, and considerable difference of opinion has arisen as to the place of commencing such a work of reform; certainly no place can be more proper than the centre of the union; and as this laudable undertaking has been commenced at a proper point by individual enterprise, it is to be anxiously hoped that the representatives of the nation will in future contribute their aid to the furtherance of so desirable an object, by holding out every possible inducement to individuals to embark their money in this kind of public improvement and convenience.

MR. SNOWDEN.
In the Philadelphia Aurora of the 4th of October, is an account of "the German mode of obtaining spirit from Potatoes." Its length prevents my asking the favor of you to insert it in your paper.
The writer says, "In Germany it has long been the custom to obtain distilled spirits from the potatoe. After the fermentation the residue or lees yet containing nutritive qualities, and also that of distillation, afford excellent food for cattle, and particularly cows."
"Potatoe spirit has been made in this city, of excellent quality. It is found, not only to be much cheaper than grain used entirely, but to afford better flavored liquor, and other qualities, which give it a decided preference."

DELAWARE.
By the Philadelphia papers it appears that federalism gains ground in the state of Delaware. There are only three counties in the state. New-Castle decidedly democratic—Kent nearly equal—Sussex greatly federal. Returns from two counties are published—New-Castle a democratic majority of 694—this is less than formerly—Kent, federal majority of 430, more than any former year:—at Mr. Vanduyke will be re-elected by a majority than has been given to the federal ticket for many years. The electors of the president are secure.

VERMONT ELECTION.
A letter from Windsor, Vermont, dated on the 3d instant, says, "The Governor and Council are Federal, and in the House there is a federal majority, certainly. Buckingham and Chittenden, federalists, are elected to Congress; and if Hubbard is not now, he will be at the next trial. So that this State's delegation will be federal, with the exception of Mr. Shaw."
In the Southwestern District, Vermont, Samuel Shaw, the democratic candidate, was chosen to Congress, by a majority of only 753 in 5546 votes;—his election is the one that has been so long known.—Boston flatter.

A letter from a gentleman at Lancaster, in Kentucky, to a Philadelphia editor says: "The people of this state begin to get tired of the embargo, and Mr. Jefferson is losing ground very fast. Scarcely any money is stirring now in Kentucky; and the farmers and distillers get little or nothing for their produce and whiskey. The price at New-Orleans for Kentucky whiskey, is about two shillings per gallon. Four three dollars a barrel, pork three dollars a hundred, &c. &c.—Still there are some of the unthinking multitude who cry out "the embargo is right, for Jefferson made it"—but these are few in number.

The following is an extract of a letter from a gentleman employed by the government of the United States in France, to his friend in this city. As the letter has been placed in our hands, we vouch for its authenticity.—Let Americans reflect on its contents, and they must bitterly lament the hour when they confided their dearest interests to the guidance of men, who were neither qualified by political integrity, nor personal talent to direct them.—Philadelphia Register.

"Hopes were for a long time entertained, that an amelioration in the measures adopted towards the United States would take place; that hope seems now to be abandoned; and under the existing system, commerce with this country must be relinquished: it having been openly and firmly declared, that any vessel having been visited at sea, under any pretext whatever, shall be confiscated. Those which are in any of the ports under the vast influence of this country have been seized, the greater part have been condemned, and the rest will soon share the same fate, the condemnation daily going on. Here they connect an idea of commerce together with England, and the total annihilation of the first is determined on as preparatory to the destruction of the last; late events have however, much disconcerted this plan; the massacres which have taken place in a neighboring kingdom, have estranged all hearts there as well as here; and as I suppose the Spanish colonies will under some form or other, become independent of the mother country, our commerce will naturally go into that channel to make up for the one we have lost. In America, it will be said, that the continent of Europe, will not be able to go without the produce of the colonies: be assured, that the iron hand which directs all here, will make this possible. Already the common classes have abandoned the usages of these articles; and the consumption is so diminished, that prices are now lower than they were three months since; even when they shall become very dear they will be used by the rich as luxuries: and enough will be procured from the Levant, with some captures, to supply them. Much cotton is procured from Asia, and it has been planted with great success in the south of Europe."

RAISING THE EMBARGO.
Some people are silly enough to suppose the president and heads of departments are now consulting about raising the embargo. No such thing:—business of greater consequence now occupies the attention of the administration. To be, or not to be, is now the question. The opposition of the Spaniards in Europe to the mandates of Bonaparte, and the decided hostility of the northern states to his influence in this country, have placed our rulers on quite a different ground from that on which they stood at the close of the last session of congress. It is now neck or nothing with them. They must rather bear down all opposition, and openly acknowledge Napoleon as ruling the destinies of the nation, or they must retire in disgrace. There is now no middle course.—The people will be no longer gulled with hollow promises and vain predictions.—They are making an effort to free themselves from the shackles of jacobinism, and they will, sooner or later, succeed. No doubt the whole strength of democracy will be opposed to the wishes of the people.—The officers of administration are playing the last game of tyranny in this country; they know the game of tyranny in this country they know the game is desperate and they will play desperately. They are now planning their defence. No kind of deception will be left untried, no stone unturned which may give them the least advantage. But they must fall. They have been weighed in the balance and found wanting—their reign is finished.

THE HEADS OF DEPARTMENTS.
These gentlemen have now been in the city more than a week, they have before them all the dispatches from Europe which they expect previous to the meeting of Congress; indeed all they ever expect; Mr. Baker from France via Holland, and Mr. Nourse from England have arrived; yet we hear nothing about raising the embargo. In fact it is now well understood that the embargo cannot be raised, unless we go to war with France; of course the people may set their hearts at rest, for the embargo will lie, if it is in the power of the administration to keep it on. Our rulers have committed themselves to his imperial majesty; they have put their hands to the plough, and he will not suffer them to look back. His language is "keep yourselves in your shell if you would keep out of harm's way, for if you come out you shall fight for or against me." This language to men of spirit appears rather insulting; but the silent language of England is still more so; it is, "as you are not worth minding you may do as you please." Was ever nation more degraded than ours. Empires and kingdoms have been conquered; nations have been subdued; but we are the first people who ever resigned their existence as a nation without a struggle.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.
This instrument, for which all ears are open, all eyes are staring and all mouths are gaping, is now manufacturing in the city. What progress the workmen have made on it we are not informed; but we are inclined to think it proceeds heavily, not for the want of materials, for these are in plenty and at hand; but they are such as the head builder will not wish to use. Of our foreign relations what can he say? From England he has nothing but newspaper information and that is not of the most pleasing nature. Of Spain he can say, "there indeed a contest appears to have arisen; but of its course or prospects we have no information on which prudence would undertake a hasty change in our policy." From France he has undoubtedly enough to make a whole message of decent length and breadth, if he would condescend to let it out; but of France he must say nothing; whatever relates to the great emperor must be reserved for the hallowed eyes of the cabinet only, or for secret messages.

Of our own devoted country he has indeed volumes; but it is disagreeable stuff to a man of his character, and will puzzle the brains of a philosopher to work into a message so as not to bring down curses instead of blessings upon his head. He may prate about roads and canals, and manufactures and all that—but it will not do. He must come to the point, hard as it is. The life blood of the nation is fast drying up.—A remedy must, at least, be attempted; and if Mr. Jefferson can point out none, he and his party must quit their stations, and make room for those who can.

Various reports are in circulation respecting the king of Sweden; nothing official has yet transpired relative to our present connections, or no connections with that power; whether we are to have him as an expensive ally and precarious friend; or whether the tide of his influence, talents, and wisdom, is to be turned against us, time and ministers will inform us. According to private letters brought by the Gottenburgh mail, the king of Sweden is gone to Finland, for the purpose of having a meeting with the emperor Alexander. It is stated in these letters, that the reason of the successes of the Swedes against the Russians in Finland was on account of considerable numbers of the latter had been ordered to march into Russian Poland, which country, it is rumored, Bonaparte has demanded, and these letters go so far as to say, that the meeting of Alexander and Gustavus has for its object the forming a new Coalition against France, to which Austria will join all its force. We give these reports to our readers, leaving them to judge how far they are deserving of credit.

ANCHOR TAVERN, GEORGE-TOWN.

Beef Stake and Oyster House, REVIVED, BY GEORGE PITT.

FROM the repeated and sincere solicitations of his real friends, and other transient, respectable characters, who visited his house when occupying the above tavern, he with much pleasure, informs them, that it has been completely repaired, and improvements added, so as to make it comfortable and convenient to the weary traveller—retired apartments for the philosopher, or man of business—an extensive view of that beautiful island belonging to General John Mason, river Potomac, &c. A copious and elegant garden, with rural and public walks and arbors, for the desponding lover to meditate on the object of his affections—and the man of pleasure to pass away many a dull and tedious hour. And its being in the centre of the town, near the banks and other offices, and the nearest tavern to commercial characters, renders his situation more convenient to the planter, farmer, and man of business; and gives it a decided preference over any other—to which add the keeping of good and attentive servants; the best of regulations in his house; liquors equal to any in the Union, good beds, wholesome diet, moderate charges, and a determination to use every exertion in his power to give general satisfaction, he flatters himself that he shall meet with that support from a generous and discerning public, which his attention and merit may entitle him to.

Gentlemen, and those who act as such, may be accommodated with Oyster Suppers, at sixty-two and half cents each, at any hour in the night, in parties not less than four in number—If less, they will be charged with four suppers.

As the ensuing races are expected to be more respectable than formerly, all gentlemen sportsmen may depend on being accommodated with good stabling, careful hostlers, the best of hay, horse feed of every description, and every attention paid to their nags, fillies, &c.

Private stables for two or three running horses, with accommodations for grooms, &c.
